Marriage Matters At Caulfield Shule

Mazal tov on your forthcoming marriage and congratulations for undertaking the journey together with us at Caulfield Shule.

First meeting:

The couple must meet with the rabbi to complete the “Notice of Intention to Marry” form which by law must be received by the rabbi at least one month prior to the marriage.

What to bring:

- 1) Original and copies of Hebrew marriage certificates (kettubot) of your respective parents. If a copy of a ketubah is not available, please contact the Shule where your parents were married to request a copy or a letter from your rabbi/Shule verifying your Jewish status.
- 2) Original and copies of your respective birth certificates.
- 3) Photocopy of front page of passport with photo of the bride and groom
- 4) Where there has been a change of name by deed poll, documentary evidence to that effect.
- 5) Where one of the parties is not of Jewish birth, evidence of conversion.
- 6) Where one of the parties was previously married, details of previous marriage, evidence of civil divorce, copy of Jewish divorce certificate (Gett). If applicable, evidence of death.

Call up/Aufruf

We hope that you will have your call-up at Caulfield Shule as part of your wedding celebration and that you will host a communal Kiddush after the service.

It is the custom of the shule to provide a Kiddush for congregants every week. The understanding is that a call-up is a public event and that a joy shared is a joy increased. A Kiddush is one of the best ways Jews show their identification with the host shule and make the event more than just a personal ceremonial occasion. The purpose of this is to encourage ba'alei simcha to share their joy with the community through a Kiddush.

Does the groom want to be called up to the Torah at Caulfield Shule on the Shabbat prior to the wedding?

Yes No Date: ____/____/____

Are you having a Kiddush in the Sukiert Hall?

Yes No

Is the function open to the congregation?

Yes No

If you are not hosting a kiddush for the congregants on the occasion of your simcha, then a contribution toward the shule kiddush is required. This Kiddush will be for the congregants only and does not include catering for additional simcha guests. Please see attached price list.

If your Chuppah is off-site do you want the shule to be reserved as an inclement weather back-up?

Yes No

Wedding Fees

Up to date prices are available on the Caulfield Shule Price list (attached). Please complete the application form and return to the Caulfield shule office.

Should you have any financial difficulties please discuss this with the Rabbi's PA, Yael Garkawe.

Acknowledgement

- I give permission to Caulfield Shule to use any photographs of our wedding in their publications and noticeboards and understand the requirements for a chuppah with CHC.
- I faithfully declare that the information I have provided is true and I know of no impediments in Jewish or Australian Law to my intended marriage. I permit the Rabbi of Caulfield Hebrew Congregation to undertake all investigations necessary to establish or verify my eligibility to marry under Jewish or Australian Law.
